GLOBAL STUDIES MINOR

The Global Studies minor prepares students to lead thoughtfully in an increasingly interconnected and unequal world. This interdisciplinary program draws on Political Science, Communication, Business, Cultural Studies, Sociology, and the Humanities to examine the cultural, social, political, and economic dimensions of global issues.

Grounded in inclusiveness, justice, and service, the program emphasizes evidence-based and ethically grounded analysis and integrates academic study with experiential learning, including applied research, community engagement, simulations, and global learning experiences. Graduates are prepared to apply academic knowledge in practical contexts and pursue careers in law, international affairs, global business, non-profit and government organizations, education, and public policy.

Requirements for a Minor in Global Studies

Code	Title	Credits
GST-101	Cultures of the World	3
PSCI-130	Global Issues	3
Select three credits from the following Global Governance courses:		3
PSCI-331	The U.S. in World Politics
PSCI-332	Democracy, Globalization, & Human Rights
PSCI-333	International Law and Global Governance
Select three credits from the following Global Business and Development courses:		3
COMM-340	Intercultural Communication
MGMT-350	International Management
MGMT-353	Global Supply Chain Logistics
MKTG-349	International Marketing
Select three credits from the following Global Cultures courses:		3
GST-246	Global Impacts of Immigration
LXS-201	Intro to US Latinx Studies
SOC-340	Race and Ethnicity
Total Credits		15